Alameda Fire Department – Firefighting and Beyond

In honor of REALTOR® Safety Month, the Alameda Local Government Relations (LGRA) Committee hosted the City of Alameda Fire Chief Nick Luby at their September meeting. Chief Luby shared how the fire service is meeting community needs - including medical needs - and ongoing infrastructure upgrades that bring services to residents faster. Currently he is working with the City of Alameda on initiatives to further improve safety on the island, including grants for an emergency water supply and a new fire boat. Immediate Mental Health Assistance Just Around the Corner

While the National Mental Health Phone Number 988 is always available in times of crisis, the Alameda Fire Department's CARE Team (Community Assessment Response and Engagement) has been helping residents through mental health crises since 2021. Using specialized mental health and crisis intervention training, CARE Team responders are available 24/7 to help clients navigate their current situations and connect them with appropriate resources. If you are experiencing an emergency or crisis, always call 911. If you know or think someone else is in crisis in Alameda, call 911 or 510.377.8340, the police non-emergency line, for CARE Team assistance. Learn more here.
